QUESTION 3

The federal and state governments (and their related agencies, bodies and local authorities) have long used modified cash accounting, where financial transactions are accounted for and recorded when there is an inflow or outflow of cash in the reporting period. Under the modified cash accounting basis, assets are not capitalised and liabilities are not reported in the financial statements. However, this will soon be a thing of the past in Malaysia as both the federal and state governments are currently transitioning (in phases) to accrual accounting under the Malaysia Public Sector Accounting Standard (MPSAS) framework.

The implementation of accrual accounting is in tandem with the government's Public Sector Transformation Policy under the New Economic Model and the implementation of outcome-based budgeting (OBB) by the government. It is envisaged that the adoption of accrual accounting in the public sector (together with OBB) will have a significant effect on good fiscal management and improve the effectiveness of financial management and accounting of federal and state governments.

QUESTION 4

KUALA LUMPUR: The Auditor-General's Report (LKAN) 2017 Series 2 tabled in Parliament today contained 298 recommendations aimed at improving weaknesses in the public sector.

Auditor-General Tan Sri Dr Madinah Mohamad said 83 of the recommendations were related to activities carried out by federal ministries, departments and statutory bodies; 42 were related to management of federal government companies and agencies and 173 were related to management activities by ministries, departments, agencies and management of state government companies.

She said 16 performance audits and eight government company management audits were carried out at the federal government level.

According to Madinah, the performance audits were conducted in accordance with international auditing standards namely the International Standard of Supreme Audit Institutions (ISSAI) 3000, 3100 and 3200.

She said beginning with the 2017 Series 2 report, the National Audit Department had improved the performance audit approach by emphasising on output and outcome evaluation, as well as the effectiveness of service delivery and the level of satisfaction of target groups on the government programmes or projects.
